Case Management Developer
Scott Rees and Co, Lancashire
Competitive Salary (dependant on experience)

Scott Rees and Co is a leading firm of multi-disciplinary solicitors in the North West, employing more than 220 members of staff. Due to recent company growth we have an opportunity for a Case Management Developer within the IT team.

The successful applicant will have experience of designing and developing a case management application (preferably Solcase/Visualfiles). You will work closely with other team members and key managerial contacts to support existing applications, identify areas for improvement and develop new workflows and applications to increase the efficiency and productivity of the business as a whole.

Other activities will include development of integration and electronic data transfer between key business partners, development of Management Information reports, maintenance of our online case management services and occasional other IT related support enquiries as and when required.
